The Kinder Garden School Welcomes Blue Ash Librarians in for Reading Fun

On February 23, 2012, The Kinder Garden School welcomed a librarian from the local Hamilton County Library to the school to read to the children. This is a new program the school has started. The librarians visit the school every other month and share new and exciting literary experiences with the children. "We feel that the more new and different venues we use to introduce children to literacy, the more likely they will want to learn to read," explains Tami Lanham, director and founder of The Kinder Garden School in Blue Ash. "A love for reading is planted when a child is young and can hear how exciting a story can become when it comes to life."

The Kinder Garden School strives to provide the very best education and enrichment to children ages 6 weeks through school age. Since their inception in July, 2004, the school has attained Step Up to Quality recognition. They have also received their Charter through the Ohio Department of Education for grades kindergarten through 2nd Grade. Its founders, Tami Lanham and Suzi Lenhart, were both teachers with over forty years of combined experience in Early Childhood Education. Lanham worked for Cincinnati Public Schools and Lenhart for Oak Hills and Three Rivers Local School Districts. The Kinder Garden School prides itself on enveloping a child's education, development and social skills into a fun and loving environment that feels like home.
